About the 1850 Census

The 1850 schedules were created pursuant to an act of Congress approved May 23 1850 (9 Stat. 428) which provided that the census was to begin June 1, 1850. They are divided into schedules for the free inhabitants and, for the appropriate States or Territories, schedules for the slave inhabitants.

For each person in a household an entry shows the name and postal address; age, sex, color (white, black, or mulatto); occupation if over 15 years of age; the value of real estate owned; the State, Territory, or Country of birth; and whether or not he was married within the year.

In the slave schedules an entry shows the name of the slave owner; age, sex, and color (but not name) of the slave; whether or not he was a fugitive from the state.

This listing does not contain all the data presented in the original schedules. Spacing considerations for an entry on a single line require that some information be omitted, only the most significant genealogical information is included.

The heads of families have been rearranged in alphabetical order to facilitate quick reference. Persons with different surnames living in the household are cross-referenced alphabetically to make it easier for researchers to track a surname.

Genealogical information from other records has been added to many families. For some families no additional information could be found.

There will no doubt be persons whose records show dates different than what is listed here. However every effort has been made to secure accuracy and verification through research. Even so, in a book of this type errors do occur, but it is my hope they will be minimal.
